

REMARKS

The Examiner's question about claim 12 is entirely correct. Please cancel this claim.

There is an inadvertent error in the previous amendment which instead of directing cancellation of only claim 29 instructed cancellation of claims 27-29. It was not intended to cancel claims 27 and 28, which it is believed the Examiner noticed when he allowed them. The summarized claims in the previous amendment presented both claims 27 and 28 as "original". The undersigned regrets this error. If indeed claims 27 and 28 have been cancelled (probably not) their restoration is solicited.

With this accomplished all of the claims are indicated to be allowable.

As to the drawings, the Examiner has called attention to the absence of number 137. Enclosed is a copy of the sheet which includes Fig. 13. 137 is proposed to be added there. The undersigned has reviewed his own red-marked copy of the earlier proposed changes and compared it to the copy he made and sent to the Office. The copy sent to the Office inadvertently omitted 137. It also omitted 133. Both are shown in red on the enclosure, to be added to the already proposed and allowed drawing changes. The Examiner is requested to approve these additional changes. The undersigned apologizes for these omissions, and wishes h had s nt the other copy instead.

On the assumption that these changes will be approved, ther are enclosed new formal sheets which include both these, and the previous approved corrections. The other sheets of drawings have already been accepted. Please substitute the enclosed pages in the place of their respective originals.

The Examiner's careful and thoughtful examination of this voluminous application is professionally and personally appreciated by the undersigned and by the client. This is an important invention to the client, and a rigorous examination is much to his benefit.

With the above accomplished the application appears to be in order for allowance. Reconsideration of this application, allowance of the claims and a Notice of Allowance are respectfully solicited.

Respectfully submitted,
